	Organization mission	To promote mobility for persons with disability by producing appropriate rehabilitation devices.
	Organizational history	RAWWD was established in 1997 with the sole aim of assisting and encouraging women with disabilities to set up a workshop to produce quality rehabilitation devices. The process began with identifying ten women with disabilities who were provided training and were also fitted with appropriate appliances. In the last five years some of them are married and have children. They are literally wearing the pants in their homes. The women who were once condemned by their families are confident today and run the workshop, take decisions, and venture to meet clients, doctors and associated people in their profession. As a voluntary organization RAWWD is solely dependent on funds and support of individuals and corporate sector. Being a small organization foreign funding has not been received in the last two years.
